WE NOMINATE

Edward Toner Cone, composer, concert pianist and teacher, whose appearance next Saturday evening (January 31) with the Princeton Symphony Orchestra will be a high point in the Musical Year 1952-53. In playing with an orchestra here for the first time since 1948, the 35-year old Cone, described as "one of this country's distinguished young men of music," will become the first Princeton-trained soloist to share honors with the non-profit organization that ranks among the East's distinctive symphonies and merits community-wide support, particularly now, at the climax of its third and crucial season.

Attracted to Princeton some 18 years ago by the presence of the late Roy Dickinson Welch, founder of the University's Department of Music, Cone, a native of North Carolina, had decided long before he had completed secondary school that music was to be his life-work. Latin Salutatorian of the Princeton Class of 1939, he was the first Princetonian to submit an original musical composition as a senior thesis, one of the first three to earn an advanced Princeton degree in music and—after World War II—one of the first recipients of a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship.

Cone, who insists that "any competent composer should be able to write anything," has written works for the piano as well as choral pieces, choral music and orchestral works. A number of his works have been featured in concerts sponsored by the League of Composers and he has played his own compositions in New York under the auspices of the International Society of Contemporary Music. The up-and-coming North Carolina Symphony has enlisted his services as a soloist and in 1951 he introduced one of his own piano fantasies at New York choir festival.

Even during the war Cone, a "Tech Sergeant" upon his return to civilian life in 1945, made time for music. He played with the Army's Cairo (Egypt) Area Orchestra, was prevented by an injury from performing with the Palestine Symphony. In 1946 his "Let Us Now Praise Famous Men" was selected as the commemorative anthem of the University's Bicentennial Celebration and the following year he was awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship in musical composition. Next summer, Cone, now an Associate Professor, will be teaching at the Salzburg (Germany) Seminar in American Studies.

For enriching the musical life of his home community; for helping link "Gown" and "Town" in a venture that "has long been the fond hope of concert-goers and musicians"; for perpetuating the "Roy Welch tradition" of unlimited service to others; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for School Contests Ahead. Jobs without pay are frequently none too popular in a busy world but in the post-war years in Princeton, there has been no dearth of candidates for positions on the boards of education in either municipality. The elections on February 10 will prove no exception: shortly before the deadline for filing petitions this week, there were six candidates for three vacancies in the borough and six candidates for four seats in the township.

Only one incumbent in the borough, Bryan V. Moore of 30 Quarry Street, is seeking re-election. Others running for three-year terms are Dr. Henry Abrams, Armour Road; John J. Conroy, 182 Prospect Avenue; Matthew Maxwell, 37 William Street; Mrs. Edward H. Roberts, 74 Mercer Street; and Mrs. Oscar Sussman, 149 Westcott Road. Two incumbents, C. Littleton Groom, 46 Princeton Avenue; and Mrs. Glenn L. Jepsen, 144 Patton Avenue, are retiring from service to the community.

In Princeton Township, Mrs. F. J. Darke, Jr., Laurel Road, is unopposed for a one-year term to succeed herself. She was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. Rudolf Clemen when he became a borough resident.

All three incumbents whose three-year terms expire will run again. They are Henry Chauncey, 35 Battle Road; George W. Conover, 241 Moore Street; and William M. Karch, 115 Jefferson Road, the district clerk who has served continuously since 1929. Also seeking three-year terms are Mrs. William Kleinberg, Woodland Drive, and Mrs. Claire R. Levine, Harris Road.

Gubernatorial Derby. With the 1952 political campaigns climaxed by Tuesday's inauguration of President Eisenhower, the biggest 1953 event for New Jersey will be its wide open race for governor. The scramble will be an active one in both parties, but because the Democrats have not carried the state in more than a decade, potential Republican candidates outnumber the opposition by four or five to one.

First hat in the ring was that of State Senator Malcolm S. Forbes of Somerset. Other Republicans to follow, before and after Governor Driscoll categorically removed himself for another term, have been Paul L. Troast, chairman of the Turnpike Authority; Assemblyman Fred Shepard of Union; Senator Samuel L. Bodine of Hunterdon; and former mayor Fred Richardson of New Brunswick.

Urged but uncommitted are Princeton's former mayor, Dr. Charles R. Erdman, Jr.; Senator David Young of Morris; State Treasurer Walter T. Margeritts, Jr.; and the Rev. Dr. Lester H. Clee, president of the Civil Service Commission and an unsuccessful candidate in the past.

If the Republicans have too many to avoid confusion, the Democrats may encounter the same state of affairs in seeking to come up with one good candidate. A renegade —Continued on Page 2 member of their party, Assemblyman James Tumulty of Hudson, has announced his candidacy, but the "kiss of death" today is association—even by implication with the regimes of Mayors Hague and Kenny.

Elmer H. Wolfe, bloody from past duels but apparently unbowed, has been mentioned without ensuing enthusiasm. Supreme Court Justice William Wachelder of Essex enjoys a good reputation but has rejected all attempts to persuade him to carry the Democratic banner.

The poor race run by Archibald Alexander, the Democrat, in his campaign against Senator Smith last fall has considerably cooled the hopes that he was the rising young man of his party. Less than 60 days before the deadline for filing petitions, there was a distinct question whether the Democrats could come up with a candidate or merely a straw dummy.

On the lighter side, Henry Krajewski, Seacucus pig farmer who ran for president last year, announced his entry into the advertising of the gubernatorial race. This time, he reports, it will not be his hand of the "year man's ticket," ("voters don't like to sound as if they were broke") but as an independent.

But Mr. Krajewski is a long way from becoming a threat. Tabulations of the 1952 presidential voting showed that he got less votes than he has pigs.

Silver Anniversary. Observation of its 25th anniversary will be marked by the Princeton Lions Club this Friday night with a dinner and entertainment program at Charlie's Farm Inn, Belle Mead. The service organization was founded November 25, 1927, with 24 members and has tripled its membership in the past quarter-century.

In all, more than 200 separate projects of a community and charitable nature have been undertaken by the Lions. They are active at Easter with a children's egg hunt in the fall with a Holloween window painting contest and at Christmas with the carol singing in Palmer Square. While many families and organizations have benefitted from the club's work, its members have consistently bent much of their effort to aiding the blind.

Charter members of the organization, which held its early meetings in the old Nassau Inn, included George W. Baldwin, R. C. Brown, Arthur W. Case, Walter F. Comer, Harry A. Farr, Edward A. Frohling, John B. Grover, B. L. Gulick, Jr., John H. H. Gulick, R. D. Harris, Jack Honore, Foster D. Jimerson, Frank Kame, Harry H. Kerr, Jr., Myron E. LaVake, William R. Lewis, Morris Maples, Thomas J. Mulvey, James W. Murphy, Donald Pettit, F. A. Struve, Edward A. Thorpe, Orren Jack Turner and Frank Warren.

The Rev. Guy A. Bensinger is general chairman of the anniversary committee. Other members include past Lion presidents: John Archer, Russell Bette, William Boehm, Fred Crandall, Fred Creager, Elmer Dietz, James Fraser, Harry Petroszini, Joseph Redding, L. Russell Riker, Thomas Rowland, William Tucker and Orren Jack Turner. The souvenir brochure committee includes Mr. Boehm, Mr. Petroszini, David Burrough and Monroe Rue.

Grand Larceny. The story of an intercollegiate thief has been unfolding here and in New York for the past month, a story that is both fantastic and a most case study in the aberrations of a brilliant mind.

The trail left by the Oxbridge Withers, Jr., has taken the University's head proctor, Michael C. Koplin, and his son, Patrolmen James C. Koplin of the Borough Police, on repeated visits to Manhattan to uncover loot stolen from Princeton, possibly Harvard.

Thus far, stolen property has been found in 44 but cases cached in public laundries, checkrooms and elsewhere. The property includes mounds of clothing, six typewriters, Russian language books, 200 miniature pieces from Columbia's museum, 6 cameras, 2 cameras, 6

It's New to Us

New Tie for a Quarter. Well, a tie that's new to you, anyhow. It's quite possible that, Christmas being what it is, the man in your house was not completely happy about the gift neckties from in-laws, nephews and office cronies. It's also possible that he has some neckties he once liked well enough, but is now tired of. Consider these factors carefully, then tell him about the University Laundry's new tie-up.

What you do is to take a necktie that needs cleaning around to the Laundry, at 30 Moore Street. You pay 25 cents and you leave the tie to be cleaned. Then you—or your husband—pick out any tie you like from a rack on the laundry counter. The tie you took in stays behind to get the Sanitone treatment, then joins the rest of the ties on the rack, presumably to be chosen by someone whose tastes are like your husband's.

All this comes about during the month of February (although you can go to the laundry this very weekend, if you wish). That month, not sufficiently loaded with Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays, Valentine's Day and Ground-Hog Day, contains as well National Tie-Cleaning Week. (Apparently it takes from Christmas to February to get a tie dirty.)

Of course, you don't have to leave your tie behind. You can pay your quarter and take home your own tie, but if you want the change, there it is. And you may go back again and again, clear out every darned tie on your husband's rack, if you've a mind to. We intend to be first in line.

An Expert in Your Kitchen. Whether you are planning a wedding reception for a thousand or a little dinner for six, there's a new catering service offered by Renwick's, 50 Nassau, that will take care of everything for you. Renwick's caterers will confer with you about menu, prepare the food, serve it on your dishes or theirs and clean up afterwards. Or they will serve your own food, if you're an amateur chef.

Suppose you plan a cocktail party. No simpering cream-cheese-on-toast for your guests, but caviar, sturgeon, Nova Scotia salmon, or Swedish meat balls.

Speaking of Sweden, the staff will prepare foreign dishes if you want them: East Indian, Russian, French, or Chinese to name a few. Harold Ostroff, head of the catering service, has catered for palaces in India (Karachi), and has acted as advisor to the United States government in regard to foods. So you can be sure of imagination and experience when you call on Renwick's. Incidentally, there is a consultation service, too, in case you don't want a whole catering job.

Got Your Ticket? For your winter vacation, we mean. If so, your next stop might well be Mary Gill's, 230 Nassau, to select a spring suit, a cruise cotton, or anything else, long as it has a southern accent.

Most striking dress in the Gill collection is one with peg-top skirt, the dress made of white sereda—Continued on Page 8 watches, identification and various other items with a valuation of at least $1,876.

The case is exceptional not only because of Withers' kleptomanic tendencies, but also because of his background. His education has included work at Princeton (with the naval unit in 1945), graduation from the University of South Carolina (Phi Beta Kappa), a year at the Sorbonne in Paris (on a Fullbright Award) and graduate studies at Harvard.

The well-dressed, soft-spoken 26-year-old was picked up on the night of December 23 by University proctor Harry E. Cauley who was allegedly attempting to enter a room in Blair Hall. A search produced several locked boxes and the hunt began as Mr. Keppel and Lt. John H. Smith of the Borough Police returned from New York with four packed suitcases.

Withers furnished his New York address and six suitcases were found in his rooms. They contained 10 more baggage checks and lenses increased with each new cache. Efforts are also being made to recover various articles which have been pawned.

The investigators are convinced that the last is still to be uncovered, when and if Withers tells the whole story. The thefts apparently started shortly after his dismissal from Harvard Graduate School last February. With an intimate knowledge of college life, he had conducted his activities during vacations and football weekends.

Withers has pleaded guilty to four charges of grand larceny and has been sent to Menlo Park for mental examination. Meanwhile, police headquarters here is piled high with stolen goods as yet unclaimed.

Annual Meetings. Princeton's two Christian Associations, the Y.M. and the Y.W., will hold their annual dinner meetings next week. The men's organization will gather Monday night at the Witherspoon Street Building, while the women's program will take place Tuesday evening in the Peacock Inn.

The dinner committee is headed by Raymond F. Miale, Assisting him are Charles A. Hurford, George W. Lons, Simon F. Moss, Theodore D. Vreeland, Howard B. Waxwood and Gordon G. Sikes.

Fashion Show Planned. St. Paul's PTA has set Thursday, March 12, as the date for its spring fashion show. Leading women's wear shops of Princeton will display 1953 fashions, while music and entertainment will also be part of the program.

The show will be staged in the Carter Theatre. Co-chairmen of the committee are Mrs. Thomas L. Brophy and Mrs. John F. Delaney.

Historical Society Elects. Plans to double its present membership of 200 are being considered by the Princeton Historical Society, which held its annual meeting Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce H. French of 10 Cleveland Lane. It has also been proposed to hold future meetings in the homes of members of the organization.

John D. F. Morgan was the speaker on the occasion, giving an illustrated lecture on buildings, cemeteries and other places of interest to the organization. He is a former president of the Camden Historical Society.

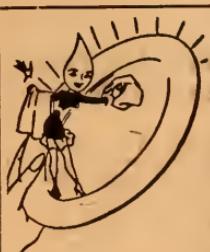

Mr. French has been named president for 1953. Other officers are Horatio W. Turner, first vice-president; Mrs. Irving W. Mershon, second vice-president; Walter W. Wells, treasurer; William P. Cook, secretary; Dr. P. B. Silverman, assistant secretary. In addition to the officers, Mrs. Harry A. Farr, II and J. Dayton Voorhees will serve on the executive committee.

Ambulance Unit Busy. Mileage well in excess of a trip across the nation and back was covered by the First Aid Unit of Princeton Engine Company No. 1 in completing its calls during the past year. Members of the organization who man the town's two ambulances travelled some 7,700 miles in answering 525 calls, or put in a total of 1,769 man-hours.

Officers for the next 12 months are William E. Rodeweller, president; Elmer J. Van Marter, vice-president; John P. Golden, treasurer; Leonard F. Krum, financial secretary; Albert Toto, captain; John J. Golden, head driver; Elmer J. Rodeweller, Samuel S. Davison and William J. Larkin, trustees.

The sum of $5,800 was contributed to the unit for its work during the coming year. The figure is less than had been anticipated, and additional funds will be welcome.

cloth looks like linen embroidered with Chinese pagodas in navy, black or brown. It's sleeveless, wide-necked, with a stole and two rhinestone pins at the neck.

A companion dress has embroidery in an abstract pattern, with black-fringed stole. You'll be surprised to learn that in spite of all the fine embroidery, these dresses will wash.

Another cotton dress you'll like is called Tweedair. Looks like tweed, and has a big shoulder strap and straw belt. Or there's the cotton cord suit dress, or the serodo with metallic trim on the coolest colors you ever saw: pink, aqua or white.

Another aqua has rhinestones and white embroidery to make you look twice. Lots of gold thread in these cottons, to catch both sun and eye. Many of the dresses come in large sizes, by the way.

Those suits we spoke of are pastel wools or nubby tweeds (real tweed, this time). One has a boxy jacket made of tweed in a larger pattern than the tweed of the skirt. A spring coat is made of giant houndstooth wool with black fringe on the cuffs.

A useful dress of navy linen with red belt, has a loosely-woven wool topper that could be used by itself on cool evenings.

Princeton, by a Princetonian, Rex Goshorn, director of Group Arts, is selling a few of his Palmer Square silk screen prints through the Witherspoon Art and Book Shop, 7 Spring. They are good-sized prints, around 15 by 17 inches, and the $4 you pay includes the mat. It is Mr. Goshorn who teaches the silkscreen class at Group Arts, so you can be sure of technique as well as artistry in the execution of these prints.

There's something pleasantly old-fashioned about the institution of the bookplate. You've seen them in old books, a carefully engraved coat of arms, with "ex libris" at the top. Well, some new plates, more contemporary in feeling, have just come into the Art and Book Shop.

Rockwell Kent has designed some. Others have been done by Lynd Ward, a noted artist in woodcut. Some are steel engraved, very special plates done on a rough-finish paper.

You'll find quotations in old English lettering, landscapes, indoor studio scenes and so on. The "Fiestin" section carries children's bookplates in six-color prints, with dragons, princesses, ring dolls, and a furiously galloping rocking horse. (All bookplates can be printed with your name, if you wish.)

For instance, why not buy your self a book-leaping record? It's like a record book. You keep the stub and the borrower gets a slip of VARIETY, Fabric-wise, 14 Witherspoon, the new clothes are featuring fabric, one way and another. An outstanding item, in competition, is a cotton plisse slip, short-sleeved and reinforced with nylon at the seams. There's a panel, front and back, to keep shadows away, and a simple eyelid ruffle, bottom and top, to give it an air.

You don't have to iron this slip, and those nylon seams will practically never pull out. The price is $2.98, and there is a wide size range: 32 to 46. White only.

Some new sweaters in this shop are lamb's-wool and ornate, almost as soft as cashmere, and considerably cheaper. We saw slippers and cardigans in white, cream, grey, red and pink.

With one of these sweaters, you could wear a pair of bankers grey wool flannel shorts, made especially for Mr. Bailey. These shorts, Bermuda length, have wide belt tabs, and a three-inch slit at the side of each leg. The price is $8.95, and we think you'll find them a year-round pleasure.

A combination of nylon and acetate yarns has been used to fashion a blouse that would go well with any tailored skirt. It's a shirt with long French-cuffed sleeves, and a small tab at the neck which could wear your initials.

The blouse has a self-stripe, and the fabric has a soft sheen—but not a shine, by any means. You'll like the $6.95 price tag.

County vice-commander D. Don Richards will represent the post during the annual tour of county organizations made by the Mercer County American Legion. The post will also be represented at a statewide religious service to be held in Trenton at the War Memorial Building, Sunday, February 8. Commander George Cahill has announced.

Formation of a Radcliffe Club of Princeton has been announced. Members will seek to raise funds for a Radcliffe scholarship for a girl from this area and will cooperate with Mount Holyoke alumnae in sponsoring the "open house" tour of various Princeton homes.

Mrs. Darrell Johnson, club president, will be assisted by Mrs. Lawrence B. Holland, vice-president; and Mrs. William H. Cherry, secretary-treasurer.

Princeton's Company L of the New Jersey National Guard, will be inspected at its drill on February 2 by General Donald B. McGowen, the Guard's commanding general and head of the New Jersey Department of Defense. His presence will designate the Princeton unit as the honor company of its battalion. Lieut. Stanley L. Donald is the company commander.

"The Little Foxes," successful Broadway drama of the recent past from the pen of Lillian Hellman, will be given Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, January 29-31, by the Community Players at Avalon. Stuart Duncan is directing, with Mrs. Lewis Sargent in the leading role. Members and their guests may attend.

Municipal licenses to be renewed before January 31 are those for dogs, carting, pinball and record-playing machines, pool rooms, bowling.

The New Jersey Poll

CAR INSPECTION BACKED;
PUBLIC LISTS PROBLEMS
NEW CONGRESS IS FACING

On January 10, 1953, a law went into effect requiring that all New Jersey registered motor vehicles be state-inspected twice a year. Today 15 years later New Jersey voters overwhelmingly approve of the way the New Jersey car inspection system operates.

Ninety-six of every 100 adults questioned in the survey said they approved of car inspections. Only two in a 100 expressed disapproval; another two in a 100 had no opinion on the matter. In other words, those who express approval outnumber those who disapprove by a margin of 48 to 1.

To find out what ideas New Jersey voters have for improving the present system, New Jersey Poll staff reporters asked all those interviewed:

"What suggestions do you have for improving the way car inspections are made at the present time?"

Survey results show that these four suggestions were named most often by New Jersey voters:

More rigid and stricter inspections; should check lights and brakes more carefully; need better light inspection equipment; not as particular as they should be in many cases; some inspectors could be more careful.

Need more stations; service too slow; stations should be open longer hours.

Congressional Problems Listed. What do rank and file voters in New Jersey consider the problems most needing the attention of the incoming 83rd Congress, which opened its session this month?

To determine the answer to this all-important question, the New Jersey Poll sent its reporters up and down the state to ask an accurate cross-section of the state's voters:

"What problem would you say most needs the attention of the incoming Congress?"

Results of the statewide survey show that four problems are uppermost in the minds of New Jersey voters:

Foreign policy; the Korean War; Tax reduction; Balancing the budget.

Nearly three out of every five people questioned in today's survey named one of the above four.

Next most important problems with the state's voters, judging by the frequency of mention are:

National defense; Reduction of government spending; Inflation and the high cost of living; Corruption in government; Labor relations; Keeping the country free from Communism.

The tuition increase for township pupils attending Princeton High School will be $25 apiece next year, not $75, as reported last week.

Salt-water taffy will be sold throughout Princeton next week by boys in the YMCA as part of the observance of national YMCA Week. Proceeds will aid projects in the boys' program sponsored by the association and in paying the summer camp expenses of boys otherwise unable to attend.

The Township Committee has started negotiations with the borough to determine the proper amount to be charged the former for use of the Public Library. The figure will appear in the municipal budgets next month.

The Professional Photographers of Central New Jersey were hosts last week, to representatives of over 200 studios at the Orren Jack Turner Studio on Nassau Street. Following a buffet supper, possible merger of the separate groups into one organization was discussed. The Princeton delegate was Orren Jack Turner, Jr., Central New Jersey group president. Clearose Studio and the Darkroom also hold membership in the organization.

There were 10,432 motor vehicle and traffic violations in the borough last year, 90% of them for parking. Of this number, 8,293 were for overtime.

Those fined in borough court for speeding include Mrs. Edith S. Semple, Lawrenceville Road; Daniel J. Daly, 120 Prospect Avenue, and John B. Frohling, 12 Stockton Street, each of whom paid $7.

Harry Williams, 27½ Leigh Avenue, was fined $15 and given a 30-day suspended sentence in the county workhouse Tuesday by Magistrate Paul R. Chesebro. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of disorderly conduct brought against him by Sergeant Thomas P. Murray.

News of the Theatres

McCARTER THEATRE

Edward Cone, pianist and composer and professor of music at Princeton, will be the soloist with the Princeton Symphony Orchestra for its concert Saturday, January 31, in McCarter under the direction of Nicholas Harsanyi. The Lions Club is sponsoring an additional concert by the orchestra for children that afternoon.

Tickets priced from $1.20 to $3 for the evening performance may be obtained at the University Store or by mail from P. O. Box 347. Tickets at a reduced scale for the children's concert are available in the schools and from members of the Lions Club.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Ruby Gentry (Thurs.-Sat.) comes close to being a trashy movie, appealing to those who enjoy the grasping efforts of a girl from the "wrong side of the tracks." Jennifer Jones as a girl in a small southern city dives into an emotional bath, suffering embittering setbacks right and left. The involved story is implicit with lust and other rather sordid motivations.

Niagara (Sun.-Tues.) features that well-known actress Marilyn Monroe in a triangle melodrama-murder affair set at Niagara Falls. Joseph Cotten finds that he is about to be done in by his wife (Miss Monroe) and her lover so he turns around and does a job on the latter. This involves Jean Peters and her husband who have an idea of what's going on. To exploit the charms of Miss Monroe, the film is in Technicolor.

The I Don't Care Girl (Wed.-Sat.) features Mitzi Gaynor as Eva Tanguay, the noted entertainer who is something of a nut. The producers have taken a stab at providing a story line, with the usual outcome of a hodge-podge script studded with musical sequences. Miss Gaynor captures the madcap spirit mainly in the fresh and imaginative production numbers. Among the men in her life are David Wayne and Oscar Levant. A sufficiently happy Technicolor affair.

THE GARDEN

Flat Top (Fri.-Sat.) was made aboard the USS Princeton. Dealing at close range with the duties, responsibilities and risks of men in the Naval Air Corps, the film is swift, straightforward and the fiction content appears as authentic as the battle scenes, which are from Navy footage. The sloppy melodramatics and mock heroics which ruin a service picture are at a minimum. Sterling Hayden and Richard Carlson head the cast.

A Place in the Sun (Mon.-Tues.) one of 1951's best pictures, is making the rounds again. The script is well written and something of an improvement over Theodore Dreiser's novel "An American Tragedy" from which it was taken. Montgomery Clift, Elizabeth Taylor and Shelley Winters give performances of great quality.

Clift as a poor relation working for his millionaire uncle falls in love with a working girl (Miss Winters). She becomes pregnant and insists that they marry, while Clift has become attracted to a higher social world and Miss Taylor. A first class drama with strong tragic overtones and a great directorial job, by George Stevens.

Man of Evil (Wed.-Thurs.) Not reviewed at press time. A British production.

Cattle Town (Fri.-Sat.) is a Western that has trouble holding up its head in its own classification. The usual bosh about feuds between ranch owners and squatters shortly after the Civil War includes much manhandling, gunplay and stampeding. Dennis Morgan is "the good guy."

Experimental Film Series. A monthly series of selected films of an experimental or unusual sort will be inaugurated next Wednesday at the New Brunswick Public Library, which is sponsoring the programs. The opening trio will include "The Quiet One," an outstanding American documentary; "Geometry Lesson" and "Hoppity Pop." Admission is free.

In Atlantic City, Cornelius McGee learned that it is best to deliver what you advertise. He was fined $100 because cigarettes he had sold as marijuana contained only hemp seeds.

In Elizabeth, undaunted by a fall which injured both legs, 70-year-old Lou Meyers got back in business as a barber by operating from a wheel chair which can be raised and lowered as needed.

In Trenton, the Chambersburg section was virtually cut off from the rest of the city when the engine crew of a 125-car freight train found its shift was up. The crew simply stopped work with the train on a crossing which blocked four busy streets. Police gave them overtime "parking" summonses.

In Atlantic City, violations clerk Edward Van Horn cancelled a parking ticket issued to one of the city's patrolmen. A check through the records revealed that the ticket had been written out by the patrolman himself.

In Allentown, John Getz started out for a day's quail hunting, came home almost immediately after having fired a single shot that killed the daily limit of seven birds.

In Flemington, thieves missed a $20,000 fur haul when they stopped to sample whiskey on the premises and blundered into a burglar alarm that they had missed when they came in sober.

In Morristown, a candidate for office who went out to meet the people, reported that he introduced himself to a "pretty woman pushing a baby carriage but found all the headway I seemed to be making was lost when I learned she was my opponent's wife."

In Waldwick, the town's governing body was still puzzling over the solution to the situation that had developed after the residents had voted simultaneously: to keep the present part-time system of police protection; to establish full-time protection; to refuse the council's request for $20,000 which which to pay for full-time protection.

In Cape May Court House, a stagecoach tumbled through the streets delivering mail. The occasion was the 150th anniversary of the first receipt of regularly-scheduled mail from Philadelphia.

In Smithville, Mrs. William Kramer met her husband's train faster than she had planned. Driving to the station to pick him up, she stalled the car on the tracks, jumped out just before it was demolished by the locomotive bringing him to the station.

In Passaic, Miss Elizabeth Krohn bested two 16-year-old would-be robbers who tried to hold her up by giving them only a lecture on a life of crime. When she had talked for a few moments about its evils, they fled.

In Bordentown, eight-year-old Madeline Miller climbed out of the car in which she had been riding with her parents after it turned over and began to cry. The jig-saw puzzle she had almost finished on the back seat had been upset.

In Newark, a bank teller handed a note saying "This is a stickup—hand over the money," foiled the attempt by telling the robber, "I'm sorry I can't read this, you'll have to see the manager."

Sports in Princeton

Serious Blow to Football. A weird combination of so-called reform has kicked college football in the solar plexus during the past week and while it will not be until the middle of the 1953 season before the adverse effects can be fully determined, the Princeton footballers are contemplating. Ivy Group teams have been particularly hard hit, and in neither case is the hardship imposed on them logical.

The first was invoked just a year ago, when the college presidents voted to ban spring practice. Princeton was opposed to the move but agreed to majority will and the decision was recorded as unanimous.

It was announced as a voluntary step to de-emphasize football, but it was inconsistent thinking that appeared to get its impetus from the kind of over-emphasis (fall practice, drill in the fall and off-game schedules, bowl games, etc.) of which the Ivy Group has never been guilty. The impression was also left that somehow the scandals that were giving college basketball such a black eye had directed the thinking on curtailing football practice.

The net result of cancellation of the March and April games was a fearful beating administered to various Ivy League teams by opponents who had that much more football on their hands. Yale was whooped by Navy, Cornell by Colgate and Syracuse, Dartmouth by Holy Cross, and so on. Penn, starting too fast to avoid early-season losses, fell apart in November.

Injuries were greater than they had been in recent years, too. Here at Princeton, no lasting impression is formed on a basis of injuries sustained in one season; rather statistics are given that can be checked over three or four years. The fact remains that more players were out of action in Palmer Stadium last fall than in the past three years combined.

Last week, the N.C.A.A. rules committee threw out the free substitution rule. The action came as a complete surprise, and was contrary to the wishes of 80% of the coaches whose votes were based on a vote taken among them. You can get conflicting statements about the players' opinions but here at Princeton, feeling in favor of the two-platoon system was virtually unanimous.

One report on the cause of the sudden and far-reaching rule change is that it was perpetrated by colleges which offer athletic scholarships. The howl about the constantly-increasing cost of football is irresistible to institutions which found the era of specialists too expensive. "Less football players and more action from the best on the squad" appeared to be their motto for '53. The result is the rule abolishing free substitutions.

So the Ivies will pay the freight on this one, too. Every college coaching staff and squad will have intense problems ready themselves for action next fall, but because of the spring cancellation, the Ivy Group will be the last in the U. S. to start working on them.

SLOWED BY INJURIES

Captain Fred Tritschler has been hampered this season first by a broken thumb and now a sprained ankle.

For teams such as Penn (whose first eight opponents all have spring training drills) and Cornell, which tackles Colgate, Rice and Syracuse early in October, the situation is a short step away from suicide. Three of the first four teams Princeton plays will have spring practice, but fortunately for the Tigers, it is doubtful that Lafayette can kick up much trouble now, whatever the advantage it has. However, Rutgers and Navy are also both early-season foes and each will be greatly aided in its search for a victory over Princeton by its 20 extra workouts next March and April.

It is difficult to see why there will not be three major drawbacks to football under the old rules thus established. First, the supply will be dead. Less players on each field will see action, particularly while the game is close. More injuries seem bound to occur. Players are more likely to be hurt as they tire and while no coach worthy of his job will leave a man in when he has obviously run out of gas, the condition of 11 men on the field cannot always be quickly determined.

Finally, the sport itself will not be as well-played, as full of action nor as fast. That was the essence of two platoons—teams of constantly refreshed players who were always ready to go at top speed even in the final quarter of a bruising battle.

Maybe some of the best never did get quite enough, but very few will had too much. The result will be fewer scoring, a poorer standard of play and occasional return to the dullest afternoon conceivable—a 0-0 tie.

Rugged Week. Of 11 contests played in half a dozen different sports last week, Princeton teams won only four of them. Twin defeats were suffered in basketball and hockey, marking one of the most unsuccessful seven-day periods in recent athletic activity here. Having been turned back twice at the gates of the long-sought basketball team has little more than a mathematical chance of retaining the title it won a year ago. —Continued on Page 16 the Columbia, have yet to win a mark of nine straight in their season's opener to the Columbia ranks as the Penn with Yale has been the best, but does not figure to hit the Lions or Quakers with the same vim in its field goal attempts, sees action again until it comes to College here on February 4. The Indians have to face Dartmouth, however, to have a chance at mark resumption.

Outlasted Out. Minus the services of Captain Hank Barthold, the team was beaten by Army, 42, and by Boston College, 42, at the Terrey and Dick Court, respectively. The defensive and offensive record, respectively, also missed the encounter at Boston. The team that was twice in action
